Gene Kilgore's Ranchweb – The Ultimate Dude Ranch Finder

Sonoma, CA: Gene Kilgore's name is synonymous with one of America's greatest traditions: ranch vacations. Having travelled thousands of miles to explore the world's ranches, Kilgore has distilled his experience and put ranch vacations on the map. Since founding Gene Kilgore's Ranch Vacations thirty years ago, he has published a series of guidebooks highlighting ranches – from working ranches to resorts – to help serve travellers around the globe. In the eighth edition, just off the press, Kilgore invites you to “prop your feet up on your desk” or “settle in front of a blazing fire” to study the guide. From tips on selecting a ranch and kid-friendly ranches, right down to how to be a good “dude,” the guide is indispensable.

Ranchweb.com — the online travel guide introduced by Kilgore in 1995, provides the nitty-gritty on ranches in the USA, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Ecuador and Mexico. Relaunched this week after a full redesign, Ranchweb.com sports a fresh look and even better functionality. Readers can drill down to find a rodeo, a cattle drive, travel bargains, spas, interactive maps, and make a reservation with ease.

Once the domain of city slickers who shed their suits for jeans, boots and hats, ranches today have wide appeal. While the highlight may be learning to ride a horse, honing horsemanship skills, or riding through wide-open spaces, other activities like bird watching, fly fishing, gold panning, a spa visit, cooking lessons, and kids programs add learning opportunities. Central to any ranch experience however is the pioneer hospitality and warm welcome that characterize Kilgore's ranches.

Dubbed the “recognized authority on ranch vacations,” by Andrew Harper's Hideaway Report, Kilgore maintains that with today's digital lifestyle, a ranch holiday is more valuable than ever, delivering a wholesome and authentic experience. Gene Kilgore has appeared on numerous national television networks to share his enthusiasm for ranches with audiences worldwide. His soft-spoken manner, genuine warmth, and passion for the ranch life make him an ideal interview subject. Of course the ubiquitous cowboy hat and boots don't look bad either.

Ranchweb, founded in 1995 by Gene Kilgore, has become the ultimate ranch finder for vacations in North America. More than a directory, Ranchweb is a resource for anyone considering a ranch vacation. Kilgore has travelled the world for 30 years to bring the top experiences to his readers. The guide features over 100 of the best, from dude ranches to working cattle ranches, horseback-riding vacations to fly fishing ranches, each offering a different experience. Kilgore also publishes Ranch Vacations, just out in its eighth edition, a full-color handy guide to all the ranches, including tips on how to select the perfect one for your family.
